Always at the cutting edge. As the birthplace of Alpine skiing, St. Anton am Arlberg has shaped the history of winter sports. True to its reputation as the "Silicon Valley of Tyrol," the mountain village has once again come up with an innovation that is a real world first for the industry. Stanton Service Centre, the largest workshop of its kind, will be using revolutionary V Edge Technology from world market leader Wintersteiger for edge grinding from now on. The ingenious "fine-tuning" twist: while the edge angle varies at the front and back of the ski, it remains constant in the binding area. The result is optimum edge grip and effortless turns on the mountain. This translates to easy control for skiers of every ability and an entirely new skiing experience.

Ladies First at Arlberg. Female winter sports lovers enjoy some very special benefits in and around St. Anton am Arlberg from 8th to 29th January 2022. An attractive programme with an array of special perks and discounts for spas, shopping, restaurants and on the slopes await them as part of the "Ladies First" weeks. Children's season ticket for ten Euros. Children up to the age of eight (born in 2014 or later) can ski throughout the entire St. Anton am Arlberg ski resort all winter long for just ten euros with the "Snowman" ticket." Young skiers are able to look for hidden forest inhabitants and playfully learn the FIS skiing rules along the Hoppelweg Trail together with the ski school mascot, Hoppl the Hare. Despite its sporting reputation, the Arlberg region is also well geared up for younger skiers, with 130 kilometres of blue runs and many designated nursery slopes. It is with good reason that kids who have learnt to ski here are particularly confident on the slopes.

Ski holidays to go. Whether attached to your chest, as an extension of your arm, or mounted in classic style on your helmet: From the end of January to mid-April 2022, holidaymakers will once again be able to capture their skiing fun in St. Anton am Arlberg with the latest action camera models and free of charge. The pros from Mountain Media Center then edit the recorded sequences and transform them into a personal video with soundtrack, which is then available to download or view on YouTube. The daily "Sun & Snow Report" for the Tyrolean region also makes use of the roughly one-minute clips.
